Professor Frank Willard

Professor Willard is a world-renowned lecturer in anatomy and neuroanatomy. Working at the New England Osteopathic Medical School in Biddeford Maine USA, he has been foremost in transforming the osteopath's view of anatomy, applied anatomy and neuroanatomical pathways and the endocrine immune response.

His work has enabled osteopaths to realise how and why osteopathic medicine works and also to realise that A T Still was way ahead of his time in seeing the inter-relationship of structures.
